The Wire-Tappers Held by the Police Court in $500 Bonds,

The trial of the conspirators who so cluded yesterday afternoon.

District Attorney Coyle, after Tirk Chirici Atlaney Coyee, aller The Chiric went to press, placed a number of the employes of the Western Union Company on the stand, including Chief Operator C. L. Bugbee, Lineman Horatio B. Newman and Operator James T. Bresser. They all testified as to how the connection with the company's wires had been made and to pany's wires had been made and to what extent the business on their lines could be interfered with. Mr. Bugbee produced copies of messages that had nessed over the wires from the house at No. 1141 Seventh street, which had been rented by the wire tappers.

C. Maurice Smith took up the defense by aiming to show that McGorty, Getty and Wade were not the real conspirators, and that they were merely in the employ of others who had not been arrested. Judge Miller thought to the contrary and placed the defendents un-der $500 ball each for appearance before the grand jury. The men have all been operators for the Western Union Company and they have been notified that they are blacklisted and can no longer ook for employment in any office of the company.

The resolution states that while the Grand Army is anxious to see the feeling of camity existing between the North and South die out, the members of Meade Post, nevertheless, consider the organization of the United Ameri-can Veterans an insult to the Grand Army, and protest against the intro-duction of any association into Grand Army affairs that are inimical to the interests of the order.

Similar action will be taken by other posts until the entire Department of the Potomac has entered its protest against the preposed union of the soldiers of both armies during the war.

RUN AMUCK.

A Fever Delirious Patient Creates a Scene in a Hospital,

Gus Francis, an inmate of the Freedman's Hospital, while suffering from dell'rium, caused by fever, created con siderable excitement among the attend ants and patients at the hospital, and also terrorized the colored residents of "The Camp," otherwise known as Howardtown. He wandered from his room and secured possession of a large batcher knife from the kitchen and started through the halls slashing at every one he met,

Strange to say, however, no one was seriously injured, but the patients were very much frightened, and some of the weaker ones received severe shocks. Francis, after alarming the inmates of the building, scaled the high fence which surrounds the yard and took to Bland's alley, in which the colored peo ple are numerous. The wild man succeeded in frightening men, women, and children and driving them from their homes. The Fifth-street station had in the meantime been notified that the man was at large, and Sergeant Kirby after a hard chase succeeded in placing him inder arrest. Francis only a few days see came out of the workhouse. rday morning he attacked his wife a her house, 1516 Tenth street northwest and was arrested and taken to the station and from there to the hospital.
